WINTER RESIDENT
FROM CANADA TALKS

J. B. Mercer, of Edmonton, Alberta province, Canada, who during the past year erected a house costing $12,500 at Kaimuki for a winter residence, addressed the Hawaii Promotion Committee informally yesterday afternoon. He urged on his hearers the spending of more money in promotion work, paying attention to the comfort of tourists and making good roads. He said he would have fifty of his

He expects to remain in that country at least three years.

Local motorists welcomed a tip on giving the automobile longer life which was promulgated by Frank Howes, the Hudson dealer, who today received advance copies of The Hudson Owners' Bulletin explaining the idea.

The publication, a monthly edited by the engineering board of the Hudson Motor Car Company for the benefit of owners of Hudson cars, says:

"Many columns have been written on the value of cleanliness, but some owners fail to see the value of keeping the machinery of their cars in this desirable state. Most owners take pride in keeping the car body washed and the brass polished, but too many of them neglect parts beneath the hood and floor boards.

Service men are often called upon to make some adjustment on a car in which the motor is so encrusted with grease and mud as to require a jumper or elbow gloves to accomplish the work without ruining a suit of clothes and making it necessary to spend five or ten minutes washing up. When kept properly cleaned any small adjustment can be made without the necessity of dressing up like a mechanic or looking like a coal heaver when the work is completed. A few well directed efforts daily will keep your motor looking spick and span, and you will be amply repaid by its appearance and longer service and, as a result, the increased life of the car.

"The railroad companies of this country spend thousands of dollars annually grooming the machinery of the locomotive after each run, and they are just as particular with the freight engines as they are with the great machines that haul the limited trains between the largest cities. It is not a matter of looks with them, but of securing the greatest amount of service from each locomotive, representing a certain investment. Every owner would do well to follow their example. It pays."

The Hudson Owners' Bulletin in the November number also gives owners of that make of car other very valuable service ideas on "How Your Motor Produces Power," "Replacing Hose," "Unnecessary 'Tinkering,'" "Rusted Springs," "Keeping The Motor Clean," "Suitable Lubricants," etc.

The Hawaiian band will be in attendance at the Kamehameha schools this afternoon. The concert tomorrow afternoon will be at Kapiolani park.

CAMP TWO RAIDED

Deputy Chief of Detectives Kellett and several officers in that department paid a call at Camp Number 2 last evening with the result that several residents were politely but firmly invited to return to the central station, there to remain for the night.

Camp 2 has been under the police spotlight for some weeks past owing to the number of complaints coming in from that vicinity. The Vineyard street tenement has become a rendezvous for blind piggers, gamblers and other offenders against law and order.

A general cleaning out of the unsavory barracks is in order unless a change for the better is noted.

Friends in Honolulu this season, and there were lots of people in Canada who could come here any old time, but now favored California. Mr. Mercer gave some figures of Los Angeles, to show how much tourists spent. The frontage assessment plan, common in Canadian cities, was recommended by the speaker for both street and sidewalk construction. Some of the downtown streets of Honolulu ought to be widened now, otherwise, when their widening will become a necessity later, the cost will be much greater.

Two of the largest battleships of the Atlantic fleet will be sent to Nantucket to meet the British battleship bearing the body of Ambassador Reid. A salute of 19 guns will be fired in honor of the dead.

CHARTER DRAFTING COMMITTEE WORKS

The drafting committee of the general charter revision committee held a preliminary meeting at the Capital building yesterday afternoon, at which discussion was given to the line of procedure that body should take in the preparation of a tentative measure form of government for Honolulu.

The drafting committee took no action however, and will meet again next Friday, when the detailed work of formulating the proposed charter, section by section, will be taken up.

Chairman A. A. Wilder, who is also vice-chairman of the general charter revision committee, things it will require about four weeks to perfect a tentative measure.

The other members of the sub-committee which met yesterday are W. T. Rawlin, W. R. Farrington, Supervisor W. H. McClellan and John Lane.
